OFFICIALS DRIVE FIRST KEEL RIVET IN WARSHIP

Large Party Leaves Bay Cities on Oregon to See Ceremony of Laying Keel of Great Superdreadnaught California

MARE ISLAND IN GALA GARB FOR CELEBRATION

Huge New Battleship, to Cost $7,800,000, Will Open New Era of Shipbuilding for Navy; Will Be Powerful War Craft

MARE ISLAND NAVY YARD, Oct. 25.—While gaily-colored flags flattered the sunlight and the sullen boom of cannon and the raucous shrieks of sirens and whistles on countless factories, warships and launches mingled with the voices of cheering thousands, the keel of the super-dreadnaught California, the largest warship ever built on the Pacific Coast, was formally laid here at noon today.

Not alone was the spirit of the occasion one of celebration for an achievement along the lines of naval architecture. Underlying the cheers, the laughter, the festive spirit of it all, was the feeling that the driving of the first rivet marked an epoch in the state's industrial history. The sound of the very hammers seemed to crystallize into a potential reality the dreams of shipbuilders and commerce men that the west coast would some day come into its own in affairs maritime.

"OREGON" STARTS IT.

Proceedings began shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning, when the famous old battleship Oregon, "bulldog of the navy," with her masts and funnels afloat with the riotous colored code-flags and navy emblems, left her anchorage near San Francisco and steamed toward the navy yard. On board were more than 2,000 guests of the government, including congressmen, senators, state, county and city officials, representatives of commercial and industrial bodies, government officials and others, who were to attend the keel-laying ceremony.

As the Oregon glided into the navy yard anchorage, with the foam rising in her wake and bringing back a picture of her world-famous run from ocean to ocean, she was greeted with a salute of guns from warships and smaller government craft lying in the stream. From every flagpole, yardarm and point of vantage, permanent air pennant dipped in salute to the valiant old sea veteran and the distinguished passenger who had arrived. The Oregon's own triangle dipped in acknowledgement, her band broke out with the strains of the "Star-Spangled Banner," and every head uncovered. It was intensely American, and fittingly so.

PARTY IS GREETED.

At the landing the party from the Oregon, headed by United States Senator James J. Phelan, to whom the Navy Department gave the Oregon for this event, was greeted by Captain Commandant F. M. Bennett of Mare Island navy yard, Naval Constructor Henry Miller Gleason, hull officer and Naval Constructor Paul H. Fretz, and other officers of the island in full-dress uniforms. Following the exchange of amenities of the occasion, the party proceeded under the direction of Captain Bennett, who was master of ceremonies to the giant drydock where the keel-laying cere-moneys were to take place.

There in the bottom of the building, ringed by bunting-covered and flag-ringed ribs and staves, with the perfect glory of a California sky overhead, and the shadow of a giant crane whose presence typified the magnitude of the work, some 2,000 persons watched in awe while the first rivet in the great California's hull was driven.

Senator Phelan, Mayor James Roney of Vallejo, George J. Campbell of San Francisco, Mayor Gene Grussel of Napa and Mayor W. K. Crooks wielded the hammers that drove the three historic rivets into place.

When the last of his gone home, and the crowd dispersed, the inaugural portion of the ceremonies were over, cheer after cheer arose and swelled across the navy yard, in tribute to the massive super-dreadnaught, whose completion at the hands of California labor is to place Mare Island navy yard on the map as a world factor in naval and military circles.

MANY SPEAK.

Following the riveting of the bolts came the speeches. Senator Phelan and Congressman Charles F. Curry, largely through whose efforts the California contract was secured for the Mare Island yard, spoke on the efforts necessary to make such an accomplishment possible and the importance of such a move to Pacific Coast maritime, commercial and shipping interests. They were followed by representatives of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West, members of the California Pioneers Society, and others prominent in industrial and commercial circles.

Speeches were also made by Acting Mayor W. H. Edwards of Oakland, Mayor Samuel C. Irving of Berkeley, Frank H. Bartlett of Alameda, Mayor James Ralph Jr. of San Francisco, Mayor John Rutherford of Vallejo, Mayor D. Krusell of Napa, and many other city and county officials from Marin, Contra Costa and Alameda counties.

monies, the party spent several hours in

East Low Bid On Battleships

Government Opens Tenders From Four

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company was the lowest of four bidders in bids opened today by the navy department on four battleships. Its bid on one electric-driven battleship was $10,470,000 and on two electric-driven battleships $10,375,000 each. On steam-driven battleships it bid $10,900,000 for one and $10,890,000 each on two. The battleship is to be completed in thirty-nine months and where two are bid for the second is to be completed in forty-five months.

Conditional figures of the Fore River Company were lower, but they depend on a provision that they may be increased or decreased according as the price of labor and material rose or fell. The company proposed that the Federal Trade Commission adjudicate claims which would arise under this proposal. Under the flat bid, such as the others made, the Fore River Company bid $10,875,000 for electric-driven and $11,475,000 for steam-driven battleships.

The Camp Company, Philadelphia, in a letter, said in view of the abnormal labor and material conditions, they were unable to bid.

The Bath Iron Works, of Bath, Me., presented the lowest bids on torpedo boat destroyers.

The Bath Company bid for two destroyers, $1,185,000 for each, and for four, $1,190,000 each.

The Fore River Company agreed to construct six ships for $1,160,000 each and eight for $1,160,000 each.

The Seattle Construction and Drydock Company offered to build one destroyer for $1,366,000, or two for $1,370,000 each.

The California Shipbuilding Company, in a letter to Secretary Daniels refusing to bid, said it was impossible to compete against the proposals of shipbuilding concerns which are "in league with the large Eastern steel and machinery combinations."

They offered, however, to turn their plant over to the government for use in building ships, asking only a fair rental.

The Union Iron Works, San Francisco, bid on two destroyers, $1,195,000 each; four at $1,190,000; for eight, $1,190,000 for the first six and $1,185,000 for the last two.

Story Forced, Is Declaration Of Defendant

Says Confession Was Made in Fright; Officers Are Accused.

Robert Andrade, on trial for the murder of his son-in-law, Jesus Espinoza, took the witness stand in Superior Judge Ogden's court today and accused Deputy District Attorney Frank H. Harris and Sheriff Jack Collier with having coerced him into making a statement which is a tantamount confession of his guilt.

"They told me," Andrade testified,

"that I would get in trouble if I did not tell a story which agreed to that told by Charles Cruse. I was afraid of them. I did not know what they would do to me if I did not do what they asked. So I made that statement."

Andrade was put on the stand by his attorney, B. F. Wolf, when Assistant District Attorney J. M. Koford and Harris, who are prosecuting the case, tried to introduce Andrade's alleged confession as testimony.

District Attorney Hynes issued the following statement after the accusations had been dismissed:

"THAT STATEMENT." Wolf told the court, "was secured through duress, according to the statement of the defendant, and I ask that he be permitted to take the stand at this time and through him I will show why this statement should not be read to the jury."

Wolf's request was acceded to by the court, and Andrade told his story. It was shortly after his arrest, he said, when the two officials entered his cell in the county jail and told him that Cruse had made a confession in which he declared Andrade was the murderer of Espinoza. Cruse was also present at the interview, Andrade declared.

"He told me," Andrade said, pointing to Harris, "that if I did not agree to what Cruse had said I would have trouble. He said, 'You will get into trouble.' I have never been in jail before; I did not know what to do. I was afraid of these men, and I did what they asked me to do."

RECESS IS CALLED.

Andrade's recital was interrupted by the noon recess. He is on the stand this afternoon.

Harris will be placed on the witness stand by Koford when Andrade leaves it, and will testify in an attempt to refute the defendant's allegations.

Miss Genevieve McKeever, the fifth member of the board, has not paid the money into the county treasurer. It will be put on trial with the least possible delay.

Attorney J. McDonald and R. M. Fitzgerald were in court as the representatives of Miss McKeever. After a consultation with Hynes the trial of Miss McKeever was set for December 4. Miss McKeever was not in court this morning. When seen later, however, she said:

I have no intention of following in the steps of the other members of the county Board of Education. I have never considered that step and will not do so. I intend to fight this accusation and raise a quiet storm at the hands of a jury in court. You know for me that I have refused to pay to the county any money, because I have earned it after hours of long and hard work.

AMERICANS FIRST, SAYS CANDIDATE

Seek Only Votes of Loyal Citizens, Declares Hughes; Answer given to Democrats; "Hyphen Drive" Is Failure

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Charles E. Hughes told an audience that crowded Schuetzen Park Hall in Queens Borough that he did not want the support of anyone who has any interest superior to that of the United States who would not instantly champion the right and interest of America against any country whatever, who wants immunity for foreign aggression, or who would have the power of this nation held captive to any foreign influence or swerved by alien machinations."

Hughes' declaration was made at the first of three meetings at which he spoke in New York City last night. The other two meetings were held in Harlem and the Bronx. Hughes said, in part:

"It is hardly necessary to say that if I am elected we shall have an exalted American policy in the world. I have no secret understandings, no unstated purpose. If anyone supposes that in case of my election the right and interests of American citizens will be subordinated to any ulterior purpose, or to the interest of the policies of any foreign power whatever, he is doomed to disappointment."

"We shall not tolerate the use of our soil for foreign intrigue. We shall not permit threats from any quarter or any foreign influence to awe us from our action. I believe that the great mass of American people are sincerely patriotic."

The nominee repeated this declaration at both the subsequent meetings. He had prepared it, in advance and in its entirety, at the three meetings there were only minor changes in its phrasing.

LITTLE HECKLING.

There was only one attempt to heckle the nominee, and that occurred early in his speech. Hughes was speaking of "American principles" when he said, "I am electing what he termed the three leading promises. They were, he said, 'first, they were going to reduce the cost of living; second, they would not disturb the business of the country; third, they would provide sufficient revenue from imports.'

"Now," the nominee continued, "what did they do?"

A man in the gallery arose.

"What did you do as Governor of New York?" he shouted.

"Well," Hughes replied, as the house echoed with cries of "Put him out!" "Well, I did a great many things as Governor of New York for the people of the State."

The heckler sought to ask another, but was apparently confused and sat down.

"If our friend can ask a question intelligently I will try to answer it," said Hughes. The nominee then went on with his speech, which was largely devoted to his tariff views.

Is Victory for Pacific Coast Keel-Laying Is Significant West Convinces Navy Officials

MARE ISLAND, Oct. 25.—To the many in the audience which witnessed the laying of the keel of the super-dreadnaught battleship California today, who have borne in mind the economic significance of the great project ahead, the laying yesterday of the ceremonies meant more than patriotic exaltation due to fanfares of trumpets, waving of colors and stirring speeches. They envisioned the great victory for the Pacific Coast that has been won against obstacles of prejudice and politics after a hard, persistent fight that has extended over a period of twelve years.

Then, the occasion means that it is demonstrated that California knows how to build great war craft as easily and as cheaply as any other state. This means that California's industry, resourcefulness and capacity is unexpected.

Mare Island has had a hard time to get an opportunity to show what it could do in the matter of ship construction. First, the prevalent idea of the officials of the Navy Department was that the yards should be concentrated in government yards and to be overseen. Then, it was necessary for a few earnest far-seeing representatives in Congress to convince the majority of that body that government navy yards could build naval vessels as cheaply and more so than the government was paying private shipbuilding plants.

WORK HALF DONE.

When these two tasks were accomplished, the work was only half done. Then the Navy Department and the eastern congressmen had to be convinced that the Pacific Coast yard could not be privately operated as government yards had to be overseen. The old bugbears of the cost of labor and of the transportation of material were paraded against the landing of contracts to the Mare Island yard.

Congress and the Navy Department could not ignore the records and since then many vessels have been laid down at Mare Island. They have included destroyers, light cruisers, training ships, colliers and large supply ships.

Now the super-dreadnaught California is under construction. So far as we know, it will, when completed, be the most powerful and costly battleship afloat—except its sister ship to be built at New York.

The ceremonies here today, therefore, mark a high point in the hopes and plans of those who have had the welfare of the local navy yard at heart. It is a vindication of their contention that the government should build at least a part of its naval craft in government yards, so that there would be no danger of extortionate charges by private plants; that the government should compete with private plants on this government work and thus keep the cost of warships at a minimum.

But most of all the nation is now convinced, or soon will be, that the California yard can build as rapidly, as well and as cheaply as any other yard in the United States.

VILLA FLEEING BEFORE PURSUERS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—Los Angeles will not stand for dancing in her cafes or hotels. This was ascertained today when complete count of the ballots cast in yesterday's city election was announced. With less than 40,000 citizens voting, "dance prohibition" carried by a majority of 10,000.

Of the sixteen amendments and ordinances only three carried. Voters stamped their approval on consolidation of city and county taxes and elections. Amendment eleven to the city charter granting municipal employees weekly pay days was carried.

KEEL LAID FOR SUPER WARSHIP

PAYS HONOR TO YARD MECHANICS

Large Party Leaves Bay Cities to View Ceremonies at Mare Island.

A tour of inspection of the navy yard itself, as guests of Commandant Bennett, during which the shops, dry docks, hospital and wireless station was visited. At the conclusion of the inspection the government's guests returned to the Oregon, where a luncheon was served on the decks of the famous old fighting ship. During the luncheon a concert was given by the Oregon's band, while many of the guests danced in the open spaces between the turrets. The party will return to the original anchorage ground on board the Oregon late tonight.

The super-dreadnaught, California, according to naval engineers, is to be the most modern of all of the world's deadly fighting craft. When completed in February, 1919, the date set for the finishing touches, it will be capable of smashing through the water at a speed of twenty-one knots per hour for twelve consecutive hours, with the drive of a battery of electric engines behind it. The California's engines are to be driven by steam turbines of 10,000 horsepower, that use a little refined oil for fuel, and are of the latest design.

The craft itself will be 624 feet long, 98 feet wide and 47 feet deep, with a mean draft of 30 feet 3 inches, a displacement of 32,800 tons.

ELECTRICALLY DRIVEN.

The main battery will consist of twelve 14-inch, fifty-caliber, breech-loading rifles of a new type. They are to be mounted three, in four centering turrets, heavily armored. The remainder of the armament consists of twenty-two five-inch rapid-fire guns, four submerged torpedo tubes, six-pounder guns, two one-pounder guns for ship's boats and several 30-caliber machine guns.

President Sends Word to Vallejo

VALLEJO, Oct. 25.—United States Senator James D. Phelan, officiating in the laying of the keel of the dreadnaught California at Mare Island navy yard here, received the following message from President Wilson, dated Shadow Lawn:

Silent Mexican Is Puzzle to Doctors

Physicians on the Emergency hospital staff are baffled by the case of a Mexican who was taken to the place and who has not gotten off his feet, spoken a word or eaten food since.

It is the most peculiar form of insanity which the physicians of the local hospital have encountered, and conferences at which experts in nervous diseases will be present are now being planned.

The Alameda police found the patient yesterday when they were told that he had been standing in one position and staring at the Elks building

He refused to be seated, to talk or move or to eat. As an experiment pins were stuck into his flesh, but he apparently did not feel any pain, as he did not move or evince any in-

The authorities have been unable his personal history. He is listed on the hospital records as "John Doe."

REPUBLICAN RALLY HELD IN ALAMEDA

With pencil and paper we engaged in a written conversation of many pages, passing the pad of paper back and forth as we wrote. Occasionally a question would be answered by a nod or shake of the head, and the expression of the face would tell the answer.

The visitor was a young man about 18 or 20, strongly built and clean looking, with bright eyes and intelligent face. He is deaf and dumb. He wrote:

"I am going to Polytechnic High school. But I need work to help my mother."

"Help—everyone who comes to Blue Bird helps, food, money, stoves, beds, canaries, kittens, employment, children for adoption, Christmas presents—what not. I indicated that I would like to know what kind of help."

"Work," he wrote. "I will cut a lawn, or do domestic, or cleaning, or anything like that."

A number of people by whom he had been employed, brought the information that he was a hard worker and a good worker. He is helping the family, helping take care of himself, and working to obtain an education that will make him a self-sustaining citizen in the community. There was nothing left in the card index of employment in his line that had not been filled. Tomorrow there ought to be.

Two clippings from the Blue Bird column of THE TRIBUNE of an issue of news week, were sent neatly together, dropped from the mail received today. The clippings told of an aged crippled woman who was supporting herself by crocheting shawls and other garments, and by darning stockings and socks.

With the clippings came a letter, finding fault with Blue Bird for some mistakes made. The letter is so human a document, and tells, unconsciously, so bravely a little story, that Blue Bird is reproducing it here in part, and is asking if there is not somebody who is in need of having socks or stockings darned at five cents a pair, cotton being found by the dozen. But the stockings and socks must not be in two bad condition, or our friends cannot do the work at that price. Here is the letter:

"Some one put a notice in your paper out of kindness, but made some mistakes. First mistake, I get a great deal of work and I do not get as much as I can do and need. Then it says I do it fast. Well, some kinds of work I can do fast, and some not, as I am not young any more. Then another mistake is I am

At the time the FIASCO, in Europe opened the boundary along the Rio Grande presented a picture of lawlessness and of revolution. The government took its first steps, or missteps, in Mexico. In spite of the election of a de facto Mexican government, the United States exercised the power of veto over the election of a Mexican president.

Revolution followed in Mexico. The property of Americans was taken, American lives were lost, the American flag was affronted, with the loss of lives of some of the American sailors. The marines stayed a month and a half and were then withdrawn. Still we received no apology and we haven't received it yet. Arms were shipped over the border which were later used to kill American soldiers. American were killed on American soil. Today a column of American soldiers is running hither and yon after bandits in Mexico, depending on a line of motor trucks for supplies.

All the United States did was to mobilize its militia along the border, a militia brave and willing to fight. Not till then did the militia hear no equipment, no transportation, not even ammunition. It is comforting to the women to know that their husbands and sons did not leave their bones to bleach in Mexico, but we as a nation owe something more. It is a poor commentary that the American flag is the only flag which does not give protection. Some things are dearer and holier than peace.

Any man can have peace if he will let another man expectorate in his face.

Kuhn closed by quoting the words of Hughes in the Adamson law proceedings, and the similar stand taken by the Democratic senator, Hardwick, prior to the passage of the Adamson measure.

CITIZENS PROTECTED.

Shortridge said in part:

From the time of Fremont, in the hunting of Indians, Americans have protected American men, women and children. Republican protection has been given to the American man and woman in all parts of the world. No man, native or naturalized, has been without protection, without a home, without a job, again the American flag an emblem, a shield, a guard for Americans anywhere in the world. It is because the flag is a symbol of freedom that we have this feeling of unrest, this discontent. We want to see again the United States independent, brave and strong, and we want to see that we protect not only our industries at home, but American lives and property abroad. Was the United States the mere means of people afraid in 1776, again in 1812, in the wars with Mexico, in the Civil War and later the Spanish War? We have and will continue to do what we never succeeded by running away or cowardly abandonment.

We want to see a firm administration in the center, that will speak to the world that American citizenship means something.

The speaker closed with an eulogy of Hughes, and an appeal for the American people to support the Republican nominee for their own welfare and the good of the nation.

ASKS DIVORCE.

Jesse James wants a divorce from Rose James, to whom he was married in 1911, because he says she has neglected her home, her two children and himself to go to dances with other men. The allegations are made in a complaint filed in the local courts today. He asks that he be given the custody of their two children.

SCIENCE AND LOVE BATTLE FOR LIFE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—Choked by gasoline fumes until the life spark glowed but faintly, 17-year-old Michael Chastek's life was saved during a battle lasting more than an hour by science overcoming an amazing handicap.

The quick and intelligent work of Patrolman Sherman Banks, whose tireless efforts were spurred on by his friendship for the victim, prevented the spark from going out until scientific appliances could be reached. The three physicians labored with oxygen and other means to fan the spark and succeeded. The life blood of a brother of the victim poured into the veins of the youth finally brought back strength and consciousness.

It was a quiet, stubborn fight that kept the medical contestants watching the life and taking advantage of every means at their command. Not until the patient opened his eyes and looked into the tense, expectant face of his friend, Patrolman Banks, did the surgeons at the receiving hospital draw breaths of relief. They say the patient will live.

Chastek, who lives at 630 East Washington street, was employed as a watchman at a dye works at 2015 San Pedro street. Early yesterday he went into a room where clothes are cleaned in a rotary gasoline washer. In a few minutes he was overcome by the fumes of the fluid. An hour later he was discovered by Edward Hornberger, a fellow employee, who summoned the police ambulance.

Patrolman Banks leaped out of the machine and when he reached Chastek he recognized him. Chastek was barely alive. In the ambulance Banks applied artificial respiration, which he continued until the youth was on the operating table. There Police Surgeon Dr. James Kane, Dr. Johnstone, Dr. Herman Zeller took up the fight. Dr. Zeller administered oxygen, which partly restored respiration.

Just at that time Marion Chastek, a brother, aged 25, arrived. He had hurried to the hospital, running part of the way, as he was nearly exhausted. In spite of his condition, he was sure enough to transfer as much of his blood as needed to save his brother's life. He would countenance no delay. The operation was begun, and before it was completed the patient showed signs of recovery. In an hour after he entered the hospital life was declared restored and as he breathed again Patrolman Banks again leaned over the operating table, watching the patient several hours later Chastek slowly opened his eyes. They stared right into the face of the policeman. Chastek looked dazed for a few seconds, then he said faintly: "Hello, Banks."

Half Million Will Be Loaned to Farmers

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 25.—Half a million dollars will be loaned Kern county farmers under the Federal rural credits act during the five days of the First Annual Kern County Agricultural Fair, which opened here today. The Farm Adviser of Kern County is maintaining an office at the fair grounds for the purpose of receiving applications for loans. His estimates that at least $100,000 in loans will be approved. The funds thus secured will insure the future of the county's agricultural industries.

A big parade by the farm bureaus of the county occupied the forenoon of the opening day. Under the auspices of the county farm bureau the program of the fair included the agricultural development of the county. The election of officers for the county bureau was held at the grandstand this afternoon.

The agricultural pavilion, which is the center of attraction, has special exhibits of rice, of which there are, 2500 acres now planted in Kern county, and of sunflowers, the growing industry which will have 15,000 acres planted for the coming season.

The big pavilion also has mine exhibits, county school exhibits, the office of the Kern County Board of Trade, and the office of the Farm Adviser. Other pavilions are industrial, farm implements, an automobile show, and the elaborately appointed rest-room, kitchen and baby nursery in charge of the City Federation of the Parent Teachers' Association.

Finds Nuggets at Scene of Old "Rush"

AUBURN, Placer Co., Oct. 25.—Values something like those found in the halcyon days of '49 were taken out of Auburn River scene of early mining, according to the forms for a culvert in the lower part of town. Herbert Merrow, local blacksmith, was the miner. He secured permission to take a pan of the gravel from the bottom of the excavation, and yielded him a fine lot of small nuggets worth several dollars.

As mining operations would interfere with the building of the culvert, further mining was not allowed.

Southern Belle Plays Role of Spy in Film Play

Vivian Martin, Adorable at

VIVIAN MARTIN IN
"HER FATHER'S SON"

A charming play of the South "below the wail," in which Miss Martin plays two roles, is the feature entitled "Her Father's Son," now playing at T. O. D.'s Oakland Photo Theater until Saturday. Several complications because "our hero" is after all just a boy, Southern belle, bring some tense moments when she plays the spy, ending in a charming love story in which our hero does not fight a duel, help to make this photoplay Miss Martin's most successful vehicle. Vivian Martin is adorable in trousers as well as in the beautiful costumes of the period.

On the same bill is "The Chatel," a play dealing with the obligations of a son toward his wife. Can a man whose creed is, "I will do what I want with anything I own," apply this code to his wife? "The Chatel" interestingly gives the answer with E. H. Sothern and Peggy Hyland in the leading roles.

SAYS LEPROSY IS UPON INCREASE

Half Million Will Be Loaned to Farmers

CINCINNATI, Oct. 25.—Leprosy is apparently increasing in civilized countries, according to Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, statistician of the Prudential Insurance Company, who presented today before the American Public Health Association the results of a study of the statistics of this disease.

Dr. Hoffman said that a conservative estimate of the number of cases in this country would be 300, and that, as shown by the returns from the state of Louisiana, the disease is apparently on the increase.

Alluding to his investigations at leper settlements throughout the western hemisphere and the urgency of a more intelligent study of statistical factors for the purpose of determining the essential contributory factors, Dr. Hoffman said an attempt was being made to bring together, by uniform and standardized methods, the leprosy statistics for at least the principal leper settlements throughout the world, so as to ascertain with greater accuracy the prevailing types of the disease, the average duration before apprehension and the average of after-care.

He estimated the known lepers in the world at not fewer than 2,000,000, of which the large majority were in the Far East. Including the United States' insular possessions, he estimates that the number of lepers subject to American control is not much smaller than 5000.

Dr. Hoffman said he was strongly in favor of effective segregation and more humane treatment especially in the case of isolated lepers who had fled to the interior traffic and for whom at the present time, inadequate provision was made in the majority of cases, and adequate provision only in the case of three or four states in the absence of complete federal leper supervision and control.

He suggested the establishment of a federal leprosarium, in conformity to a bill introduced in the United States Senate. That this measure should become a law was repeatable, he said, and meanwhile the present treatment and lack of proper care, would have to continue.

The papers are being circulated quietly, but it is understood a large number of signatures have been received.

Since the strike began there have been many non-union miners available for work, and they have been unable to enter the service of the operators because of picketing by the union strikers.

It is said the non-union men will be imported under the protection of the Federal injunction. The mills probably will reopen at once.

Injunction papers have been served on J. Kelley, deputy state Labor Commissioner.

There was a wonderful beauty about the church service last evening when Miss Marjorie Crockett became the bride of Robert Prudom, son of Rev. Dr. Prudom of Alameda. Mrs. Jackson's wedding dress was of the conventional type, white satin veiled in net over white, the long veil falling in soft folds. Her bouquet of butterfly orchids was also of changeable silk in blue and silver with ruffles of blue net.

THE CONFESSIONS OF ROXANE

BY FRANCES E. WALTER

The question which came to me at the theater was, Shall the logic of the author of this play prove the logic of my life? Would I permit myself to drift as this woman drifted? Would the end with me be the same as her end, so easily imagined?

I could see the couple in their old age, he going his way and she hers—nothing in common between them except the single tie of a common home. They slept under the same roof and were legally man and wife, but that was all. She thought of him only with impatience or outright anger, and he seldom thought of her at all. She was a feline creature, a cat, sipping gingerly of brandy and soda and occasionally dreaming of the golden hair and blue eyes and snowy complexion of the girl he was "predestined" to wed.

Should my old age bring me such a lot? Should time, with its ruthless touch, cut away from me all of those tender feelings which had been the source of my girlhood's fancies? Should my heart wrinkles as my face and the sweetness of my turn to gall as my youth faded away?

Was the logic of the author of the play of morals or right living? Perhaps it was, perhaps it was not. Life seems to be only a long, drawn-out convention that it is hard at times to discern what is mere convention and what is the right. One knew a mother who opened her eyes to settling up a home of her own because she feared friends might think she could not live with her son-in-law. Mrs. Tom, Mrs. Dick, Mrs. Tom, Mrs. Dick, that is the life, not by what Mrs. Tom or Mrs. Dick or Mrs. Harry said or did, but by what Mrs. X. feared they might think. Many a woman has lived with a man she did not love merely for fear of what the world would think. Strangely enough, it is usually the extremely well-to-do who are most given to convention. The rest of us remain in deadly fear of it from the days of our debut to the hour of our taking off.

It was convention which triumphed over love in the case of the heroine of "The Rose." It was fear of what others might say, fear of departing from the bright path of society which compelled the poor, lovelorn wife to cling to the man she secretly scorned.

I was a victim of the same force?

I started as Mr. Gordon touched my arm.

"The Rose has faded," he said, with a strained smile. "We should be going."

He had struck me hard, knew the curtain had fallen on the men and women all about me were chattering and leaving.

"It was simply terrible," exclaimed Marian. "I shall have the creeps for a week. The idea of a woman having to find her own way out of such a tangle!"

"She seemed contented with her husband," suggested Mr. Gordon lightly. "I should say she might accomplish almost anything unaided."

"It was worse than melodrama," pointed out Roxane, "the terrible thing about it was its name. There was nothing to suggest a rose or any other kind of flower."

"Except the thorns," interposed Mr. Gordon.

"Oh, that was it, was it?" replied Marian. "Well, there certainly were plenty of thorns in the rose."

"I agree with Marian," I forced myself to say. "It was melodrama."

"Which may be another way of saying that you are not a rose," said Marian. "I am glad I do not have to live such a life at all events."

"So are we all," Mr. Gordon said. "But I am not a rose."

"I am glad to be a rose," said Marian. "I know a lobster place where all the lobsters one sees are real chin-choppers. It will be a relief to meet a real lobster in such a position," laughed Marian.

"I prefer those on china to those on the stage, though I am not much satisfied with either, but it is the best I can do under the circumstances. That horrid play has got me all upset."

"It hasn't destroyed my appetite," volunteered Mr. Gordon.

"Nor mine," replied Marian, but it upset me mentally. She did not understand how you and Roxane can see such plays and yet not be so affected."

"We were not unaffected," objected Mr. Gordon. "That is, I was not. Once or twice I reflected that it was not I who was shown up, but otherwise I might have been tempted to hurl one at the misleading man."

"Now that is a real witicism," laughed Marian. "It reminds me of that column 'wit and humor of the Eighteenth Century' which I got from the library the other day. Did you ever read it, Roxane? It will surprise you to learn that certain jokes are as old as they really are."

"To what do you refer?" demanded Mr. Gordon, with a smile.

But Marian ignored him and turned obstinately to the book.

"Why, of course," she cried. "What explains it? I did not like that book at all, one who wanted to could have read it."

Whereupon we all laughed, which proved that we were unstrung or nervous or tired or irritated or something equally disagreeable.

Swedish Commerce Official Is Visitor

Declaring that Scandianavia wants

Californian fruits, wines, woods, grains and general products to the extent of several millions of dollars annually,

John Lokrantz, manager of the Swedish Chamber of Commerce of the United States, yesterday told members of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club, by whom he was entertained at luncheon, that Sweden has subsidized its steamship lines and made its southern ports free ports in order to broaden the trade relations.

A great deal of the business between Sweden and California, Lokrantz declared, had been developed by the war which had resulted in a mutual recognition of advantages.

Machinery built on the west coast, canned salmon, fruits, hops, prunes, flour and California hard woods are greatly desired across the water, he said, and can find a profitable market without difficulty. Lokrantz declared he would use his best endeavors to help develop the commercial relations between the two points upon his return to Sweden the latter part of the year.

Anti-Suicide Club Formed in South Down and Outers' to Be Aided by Plan

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—Abandoning the contracting business to take the presidency of the Los Angeles Anti-Suicide Club, William Marion, the new president of the mission at 145 North Main street, announced last night that he proposes to fill a contract with society to rehabilitate the "down-and-outs" who will join his new organization.

This Anti-Suicide Club, according to Superintendent Price, will be developed along original lines designed to educate and train to make effective the latent desires of social outcasts to regain their place in the world, and special efforts will be made to provide for the needs of women in connection with the rescue work.

WOMAN PLAYS HER PART in the NEWS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—On her way to join her husband in England Sir Douglas and Lady Dawson, and her infant son, Patricia, came into San Francisco by the Ventura from Australia yesterday morning and will soon journey to Great Britain. They will first stop at Mrs. Dawson's mother, Mrs. H. M. S. del Prat, at 2827 Berkeley way.

Sir Douglas is a famous Antarctic explorer and arrived here several months ago on his return from organizing a polar expedition for Sir Ernest Shackleton. He later went into munitions, service, when the explorer succeeded in getting his party from the Antarctic back.

Three other women passengers from Australia arriving on the Ventura were on their way to join Australian officers in England. They will stop at Mrs. Dawson's mother, Mrs. S. del Prat, at 2827 Berkeley way.

Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped along a woodland path, heard a sad little voice crying.

"Oh dear! Boo-hoo! Boo-hoo!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"What is too bad?" asked Uncle Wiggily quickly, for he knew he need not be afraid to go to help whoever was in trouble.

"I am going to look for an adventure, and that is as much as I can say. When I come back I'll tell you all about it."

Off went the bunny uncle started carrying his red, white and blue striped barber pole rheumatism crutch over his shoulder, for he had no pain just then.

Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped along a woodland path, heard a sad little voice crying.

"Oh dear! Boo-hoo! Boo-hoo!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"I am going to look for an adventure, and that is as much as I can say. When I come back I'll tell you all about it."

Uncle Wiggily took out the lead money and threw it away, when he thought better.

Uncle Wiggily gave Jackie Bow Wow the lead one in his pocket, then the lead one which he had bought from the monkey doodle-doo store and bought something good, but I am not allowed to tell you what it was.

Uncle Wiggily walked on and on, and once more happened to him. He had no adventure at all, and he was quite disappointed, which means that he felt badly, not at having any of what he called fun.

"I think now," he said to himself, "if Jackie had only fallen down a hollow stump, or had his tail caught in a rat trap, or even if he had stuck his nose in sticky rice and got it all over his head, that would have been an adventure. But as it is—pooh! I call this nothing!"

Uncle Wiggily took out the lead money and threw it away, when he thought better.

Chinese Slave Girl Is Given to Authorities

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—With the delivery of a Chinese slave girl who disappeared while under bond pending a decision as to her eligibility to remain in this country to the Federal authorities, a long war, which seemed likely to ensue, has been forestalled.

The word went out in Chinatown that unless the girl, Chan Ngu Yuk, be turned over to the authorities, exorbitant bail would be asked in the future by the immigration office. The factors of Chinatown who held the girl in their grace with other of their countrymen as a result, and the ultimatum was given Chan Knu Yuk arrived here two years ago carrying an infant in her arms. She claimed the right to land as being the wife of local merchant. She gave bond. The bonding company failed and she disappeared into the depths of Chinatown. The baby was restored to Miss Donaldina Cameron of the Chinese Mission but the slave girl remained hidden until she was brought into court and ordered deported.

BIG DEVELOPMENT FOR RIVER, PLAN

Great Power System to Be Built on Stanislaus, Is Declared.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—An application of the Sierra and San Francisco Power Company to issue $1,000,000 of first mortgage bonds, on which the railroad commission is expected to render a decision today, is only the first step, it is learned, toward a great power development in which the whole force of the Stanislaus river will be turned into electric power.

President H. F. Jackson admits that the entire Stanislaus river will ultimately be used in the plan of progressive development, although the power company has described to the railroad commission only the immediate enlargements which it proposes to the $1,000,000.

The Stanislaus, it is said, will be controlled through great impounding reservoirs so that the flood of the river will remain unchanged throughout the year.

Construction of a power house on the middle fork of the Stanislaus, above the present plant on the main stream, to develop 20,000 horse power will be the first step in the development, if the railroad commission grants the permit. The water has already been diverted and ditches constructed for that purpose.

When the demand for current warrants the north fork of the river will be developed across to this same power house. After dropping 1800 to the wheels the generators in the old power house down the river.

The present capacity of the plant is 45,000 horsepower. Jackson told the railroad commission last week that his company is negotiating for the purchase of an electric power concern already in existence but asked to be excused from naming it.

BIBLE CITED FOR EXEMPTION LAWS

California Defends Legality of Healing Statue at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—In a brief filed today in the Supreme Court by Attorney-General Webb of California and District Attorney Woolwine of Los Angeles in support of constitutionality of California laws exempting Christian Science and other "prayer practitioners" from examination before medical boards, the court was referred to forty-six Bible quotations which the California authorities had proved that "healing by prayer or as a part of the practice of a religion has ample justification in the scriptures."

It was stated that seventeen other states give similar exemptions, and an order of former President Taft providing a similar exemption in the Panama Canal zone was cited.

Christian Science practitioners, the brief states, should be classed with "drugless healers, such as osteopaths and neuroptists, who must undergo examination for license in California."

The law is being attacked by a Los Angeles drugless healer, who is not a Christian Scientist.

Austria's Murdered Premier Is Buried

VIENNA, Oct. 25.—The funeral of Count Karl Stuerghk, the late Austrian premier, was held this afternoon in the Cathedral of St. Stephen. Archishop Fr. H. Joseph represented Emperor Francis Joseph. Represented by Archduke Leopold Salvator. Tonight the body will be taken to Holzhausen, the premier's former home, for burial in the family tomb.

For successor to Count Stuerghk as premier the names of Dr. Ernest von Koerber, now finance minister of Austria-Hungary, and Prince Conrad von Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst, now Austrian minister of the interior, are mentioned.

Dr. Friedrich Adler, who shot and killed Premier Stuerghk on last Saturday, was turned over today to the court where the case is to be tried.

Further Trouble for Backers of "Aida"

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Further trouble awaits the promoters. Insurers and settlers of the "Aida" performance so interfered with by J. Pluvius as the result of a suit filed today which completely ties up all the assets and funds in the hands of the persons concerned.

N. B. Person, a contractor, in a suit brought against H. H. Dempsey & Company and four Joe Doers, said to represent Michael Williams, Rev. Father D. G. Crowley, Auditor Thomas E. Boyle, and the musical director of the production, Josiah Zuro, alleges that a contract to put up certain stages was cancelled after large preparations had been made and he is damaged in the sum of $100. Through the sheriff he today attached all the receipts from sale of tickets in the hands of Auditor Boyle and Sherman-Clay and Company, and all the insurance money held by Lloyds.

Both Sides in Great War Win

Entente Scores at Ver- dun, Loses in East

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The process of closing in on Rumania from both sides is being continued by the armies of the central powers. Tchernavoda, on the Danube, and Vulcan pass, on the Transylvanian border, have been captured.

The loss of Tchernavoda by the Russo-Rumanian forces to Field Marshal Mackensen's victorious armies is conceded by Petrograd, which announced the evacuation of this important town, from which stretches the only bridge across the Danube from Dobrudja, carrying the railway line running into Bulgaria.

Important entente forces evidently remain on the Dobrudja side of the Danube, as Petrograd mentions the continued retreat of Russo-Rumanian troops northward along the Black Sea coast. Berlin comments that the loss of Tchernavoda deprives them of their last railroad communication.

ANOTHER ROUTE.

The Austro-German success on the north likewise is important, as it opens another route into Rumania from Austria-Vaiana, via General Falkenhayn's forces. This pass penetrates the Transylvanian Alps halfway between the iron gate of the Danube and Rothenthurm pass below Hermannstadt.

The French have maintained the important ground they won yesterday in their coup north of Verdun, the war office announced today.

Last night parts of the regained territory, which includes Fort Douaumont, and stretches along a front of more than four miles at points nearly two miles inside the former German lines, were subjected to a German counter-attack.

The French held their ground, however, according to Paris, repulsing the German assaults, which were delivered in efforts to recapture the Haubremont quarters, west of Douaumont, and the Damloup battery, southeast of Vaux. The commander at Fort Douaumont is among the prisoners taken by the French, which a preliminary report placed at 3500 men. Fort Vaux, held by German hands, but the French lines run beyond it on both sides.

RAIN INTERFERS.

Rain is interfering with operations on the Somme front. Only artillery actions are reported in that area.

Today's French official report announces an important military move in the Balkans, where Italian cavalry from southern Albania has formed a junction with French and artillery from the ents de Macchia. This gives the entente an unbroken front of 250 miles across the southern Balkan peninsula, from Avlona, Albania, on the Adriatic, to the mouth of the Struma river, east of Saloniki, on the Aegean coast.

Of these performers most of them are members of the Moose order. The entertainment committee, arranging the program, has named the best band ever given by the lodge and nearly 1000 lodgemem are expected to attend. The committee consists of A. B. Moffitt, H. R. Elder, E. Barbeau, Lee Bertillon and R. N. Willits.

BEGIN ON SALTS AT FIRST SIGN OF KIDNEY PAIN

We Eat Too Much Meat, Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Says Glass of Salts Flushes
Kidneys and Ends Bladder Irritation.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sleeplessness, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water, also eat from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water, drink which everyone should take to act them to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in over coming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Advertisement.

Intimation of wholesale plans on the part of the financial and shipping interests of Norway, to control the output from American shipyards, with a disposition to place orders for all the tonnage that constructors in this country will accept, is given by F. Herman Gade, Consul-General of Norway at Chicago and former exposition commissioner for Norway, who is in the bay district on a business trip.

Gade is on the coast to arrange for the construction of a number of ships at local and San Francisco shipyards. He declares that all shipyards here and in the east, on Puget Sound, the Great Lakes, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland will be inundated with Norwegian orders, while Flensburg, Hamburg and other within a few days, has just completed the purchase of six vessels in Seattle.

"We are after the world's trade," is Gade's explanation. "We have the men and the neutral flag, and the time is ripe.

Giant Burial Ground Sought Bones of Prehistoric Man Are Clew

SAN LEANDRO, Oct. 25.—Discovery of the bones of a giant man, thought to be an Indian, in a gravel pit on the hill above the city, may be followed by excavations at that spot, with the object of determining whether it is the site of an Indian burying ground.

Men digging in a gravel pit on the ranch of Frank Williams turned up the bones of the ancient giant. The hip bone and most of the vertebrae of the back were intact. According to Deputy Coroner Robert Morgan, the size of the hip bone indicates that the man was over eight feet in height.

The bones are at the branch morgue in this city and will be sent to the University of California.

INSURANCE RATE WAR THREATENED

Hartford Company Breaks With California Rate Inspection Bureau.

Following a statement issued several days ago by one of the great American liability insurance companies doing business in the state that its rivals were secretly cutting rates, open war has been declared by another national concern, which has broken with rate-forming associations. A rate cutting war is threatened.

All forms of general and public liability, with the exception of workmen's compensation, will cost the public less should war be precipitated. The workmen's insurance cannot be cut, as it is fixed by state law, which makes it a felony to underbid on that class of business.

The Hartford corporation was the one to threaten the others with war when it issued a letter to brokers and insurance men announcing its intention of making rate concessions. Insurance agents will secure extra commissions for certain work, according to the letter.

AN AUTHORITATIVE REPORT.

Some few months ago the Commonwealth Club of California appointed a committee to investigate the question of State taxation, with special reference to the initiative petition on the November ballot providing for the repeal of all existing taxation laws and the substitution therefor of the Henry George theory of single tax and land confiscation. This committee was composed of twenty men—students of political economy, practical economy, and taxation laws; of land-owners and non-land-owners, and of business men and plain theorists. By a majority of nineteen to one, the committee recommended to the club that it opposed proposition No. 5. The one dissenting vote was cast by Mr. Milton T. U'Ren, who needs no further introductions as a socialistic reformer.

Careful investigation of all phases of the proposed law and its probable and certain effects was conducted. The report of the committee was studiously drawn and was composed for the most part of records of known facts. The committee found that the amendment to the Constitution, if enacted by the people, will abolish at once, on January 1, 1917, all our present State taxes, amounting to some $20,000,000 annually, which now fall on public service corporations, banks, insurance companies, corporate franchises, inheritances and certain licenses. Except as to the relatively insignificant land holdings then, these companies would be exempt from taxation.

The report also points out that the amendment exempts from taxation all buildings and other improvements on land, all personal property, money and the like and abolishes all license taxes save such as are for regulation only. At present there are in round numbers some $82,000,000 of county, municipal and district taxes collected each year in California. Of these about £2,000,000 now fall on the classes of property to be exempted, and about $40,000,000 fall on land, as that term is now defined. But of this item of $40,000,000 some of it is on "works of man in the land," so that considerably more than $62,000,000 of present taxes will be wiped out. If government expenditures neither increase or decrease, this amount must under the new system be added to the present taxes on land.

The committee assumed that on the average land now pays the owner five percent net over taxes and expenses, and then arrived at the following interesting result:

The true value of land in California today is $3,200,000,000. It pays:

In taxes on the average 1.25%, or... $40,000,000

In rent or profits, 5%, or..... 160,000,000

Total ..... $200,000,000

The effect of the change would be to put all the taxes on the land. So the above figures become: (It is here assumed that the full intent of the amendment to take all of the $200,000,000 of annual value will not be carried out.)

It will pay:

In taxes..... $102,000,000

In rent or profits..... 98,000,000

Total as before..... $200,000,000

Now $98,000,000 is 5 per cent on $1,000,000,000, which will be the new value of all land after the transfer to it of the taxes on other sources. One billion nine hundred and sixty million dollars is 61 per cent of $3,200,000,000 the present value. Under most favorable assumption then land will shrink in value to about 60 cents on the dollar of its present value. But land will probably fall much more than that, because every user or prospective user of land would be so discouraged at the prospect of paying to the government more than half of the net proceeds, and by the prospect of still further confiscation, up to 100 per cent, which is held forth in the declared intent of the law, that it would be hard to sell land at any price.

These figures and statements are not speculation; they are the hard cold facts concerning existing conditions and the influence of the alien idea of "single tax." It is inconceivable that any intelligent voter would knowingly vote to destroy all land values and cause it to revert to the State. He might as well endorse the policy of every citizen applying to the poor farm authorities for permission to work for his food and lodging. It behoves the voters to think. Proposition No. 5 should be defeated so decisively that it will not again be agitated in this State by foreign propagandists. Vote "No."

DESTROYING A FALLACY.

Not as introducing new information, but by way of recalling that which has been stated piece-meal in the newspapers and magazines a group of photographs in Collier's of working scenes in England is unusually interesting. It shows women operating harvesters in the wheat fields, "stevedoring" on grain barges in the River Thames; working heavy coal trucks by hand in the mines of Lancashire; in the puddling room of a Sheffield steel mill, handling molten steel and catching white hot plates as they emerge and returning them through the doubler.

These are not the usual occupations of women, even in England. They make for heavy, crushing work for strong men.

The simple point is this: Women in England have shirked nothing that their men once did. It took some of them quite awhile to become inured to their new tasks, but they persevered and have done their duty and a man's duty. English women are no exceptions among the belligerent countries. French women are doing just as many surprising things; so are the maids and mothers of Germany, of Russia, of Serbia and Austria. They no longer attract attention as heroines, because their efforts have become commonplace.

The great industrial army that must stand behind every uniformed, sabre-wearing army is in Europe mainly composed of women. They work silently in the great arsenals in cities hundreds of miles behind the firing line, but they are soldiers nevertheless.

Therefore, we may ask this question: Will the men composing the governments of Europe longer insist that the willingness and the capacity to participate in national defense is a peculiar distinction of men? If they do we shall marvel at their courage.

PROTEST BLACKLIST PRINCIPLE!

The government of Great Britain has removed a California concern from its trade black-list of American firms. Favorable action was taken on the local company's own request, forwarded through the State Department at Washington. Such prompt compliance inevitably creates the presumption that the firm had been blacklisted in a spirit of arbitrariness, and without adequate data having been collated to constitute a "good case."

It is apparent that most of the blacklisted American commercial houses were banned from British and French ports and shipping facilities for nothing more substantial than suspicion, and without having transgressed their legal neutral rights. The United States government should insist upon the recognition of the neutral rights of all its citizens and decline to discuss with any foreign government modifications of a policy which in effect dictates to American business men with whom they may deal and who they must bar from social and business relations.

Tagore has come and gone from California, though he is still going in the East. He has had as considerable vogue as a poet and pundit out of the land of the occult as one could expect from a people over busy with material things. He had not said anything to startle until he uttered himself as to Kipling. This writer, he declares, knows nothing about India, has not sensed its spirit nor interpreted its people. This certainly will cause the English-speaking world to take notice. It had accepted Kipling unreservedly and it will hope that it has not been mistaken. Kipling's India is romantic and probable, and above this, if is readable.

Viscount Uffington, whose maternal grandfather was the late Bradley Martin of New York, nineteen years old, has married the pretty daughter of the town clerk of Invergordon, England. No doubt there was the usual disappointment over the affair, but considering the human toll of the war, it is not a bad time to ignore programs for "worthy alliances" and let some of the young folk answer the call of the heart.

OUR LATEST SUPER DREADNAUGHT.

(From the New York Sun.)

Whether the super-dreadnaught Arizona, which went into commission on Tuesday, is the most powerful warship afloat is in question for naval constructors and ordnance experts, and access to full data for comparison is denied them; but it is a moderate statement that in the New York, Texas, Nevada, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania and Arizona, all of which carry main batteries of 14-inch guns, the United States has a fleet of warships to put into the first line of battle that it would be hard to match, dreadnaught for dreadnaught. In the British navy, in fact, we are inclined to think that the American ships as fighting machines, offensive and defensive, are superior in gun power and armor to any ship British dreadnaughts that could be named, although it must be admitted that there are British selections which would have an advantage in speed.

It is worth while pointing out what an advance such ships as the Pennsylvania and Arizona are upon the dreadnaught Delaware, which was launched on February 6, 1909. The Delaware has a main battery of ten 12-inch guns as compared with the twelve 14-inch guns of the Pennsylvania and Arizona. The Delaware's displacement is 20,000 tons, that of the later ships 31,400 tons. At a single broadside the Delaware can throw four tons of metal; the broadside of the Pennsylvania and Arizona is seven and a half tons. No 12-inch gun ship commissioned within five years can be counted out of the first line of battle, but it is indisputable that a ship like the Delaware would succumb in an open sea fight to a Pennsylvania or an Arizona.

The California, which is building, and the Tennessee, whose keel should have been laid by this time, will have main battery of eighteen 16-inch guns. Naval officers are not of one mind about the wisdom of raising the calibre. The shell of the 14-inch gun can pierce armor plate at a range of 15,000 yards, the shell of the 16-inch gun at 17,000 yards. Some ordnance officers have contended that as battles will rarely be fought at the extreme range it is not well to lose the use of four guns and corresponding broadside power. They insist that at a range of 15,000 yards or less the Arizona with her twelve 14-inch guns should have a decisive advantage over the California with her eight 16-inch guns. However, the decision is for the bigger guns, and in England they are now talking of batteries of 18-inch guns.

NOTES and COMMENT

The farmers are still holding the bag of molasses.

What is needed is an uncensored statement of the exact fix that Greece now finds herself in.

The feature of the present campaign seems to be the low visibility of certain William J. Bryan.

The New Jersey returns show that the President has lost his power either to coax or hoax the voters of his former state.

The town of Livermore insists on wigwag signals at railroad crossings, thereby evincing an ambition to get into the battleship class.

Senator Martine clearly has a cause of action against the President for his attempt to alienate the affections of the voters of New Jersey.

Vance McCormick's predictions of Democratic majorities in various states indicate that his partisanship is keener than his mathematics.

An European potentate sends congratulations to President Wilson on his "escape." But he hasn't escaped yet. November 7 is the day.

The Marysville Appeal advises that the next time you witness a wedding and hear the bride promise to obey, see if her fingers aren't crossed.

President Wilson's devotion to the principle of pitiless publicity is again demonstrated by his refusal to allow the civil service records of the government to be examined for infractions of the civil service law.

A woman was run over by a team in San Francisco and killed. It is a hard fate, after successfully dodging the many death motors, infinitely menacing and always on you when the going seems perfectly safe, to meet death through collision with the old-fashioned horse.

The Washington administration assures us that "the people of Northern Mexico are gradually quieting down." And in confirmation of this claim comes the story that more than two thousand have recently died of starvation in the once prosperous province of Zacatecas.

Still, while the Democratic politicians are "thanking Gawd for Wilson, who kept us out of war," we cannot help recalling that in 1898, when President McKinley was straining every effort to keep us out of war, these same politicians were abusing him as a coward and a craven.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics is telling San Francisco at long range some facts which she already knew and about which she had thrown up her hands. San Franciscans, like so many other urban inhabitants, have long been in the habit of going fishing on election day and abiding by the consequences, as though such course was predestined.

We will have to possess our souls in patience longer than was announced at first. Duffy Lewis' original plan was to motor to Chicago and proceed thence by rail. But he has concluded to make the entire distance in his machine. The rainy season has set in and he is likely to arrive a few days late. Hence he will be late in arriving.

A despatch from Los Angeles announces that Al Jennings, one-time bandit, and whose magazine account of his banditting made it seem a highly meritorious occupation, is out again for governor of Oklahoma. A record as a robber was not accepted as a qualification for governor, even of Oklahoma, on the occasion of the former effort, and there is no evidence that the standard has been changed.

The King City Rustler thus champions the thin-soled women of that town: "The sprinkling cart, which gets busy right after supper, seems to spill an extra lot on the crossings. The ladies in their thin-soled white shoes are in dread of going to library, theater or church, and those who do venture out soil their shoes and get wet feet. All well-trained sprinkling carts, everywhere except in King City, refrain from muddying the crossings."

All Mare Island mechanics who have been injured since Scott signed the new federal workmen's compensation act, will probably be paid their monthly salaries at the rate of $66.75 or $33.33, according to an announcement made at the navy yard this afternoon. It was also stated that hereafter all employees must report their injuries not less than forty-eight hours after they are hurt.

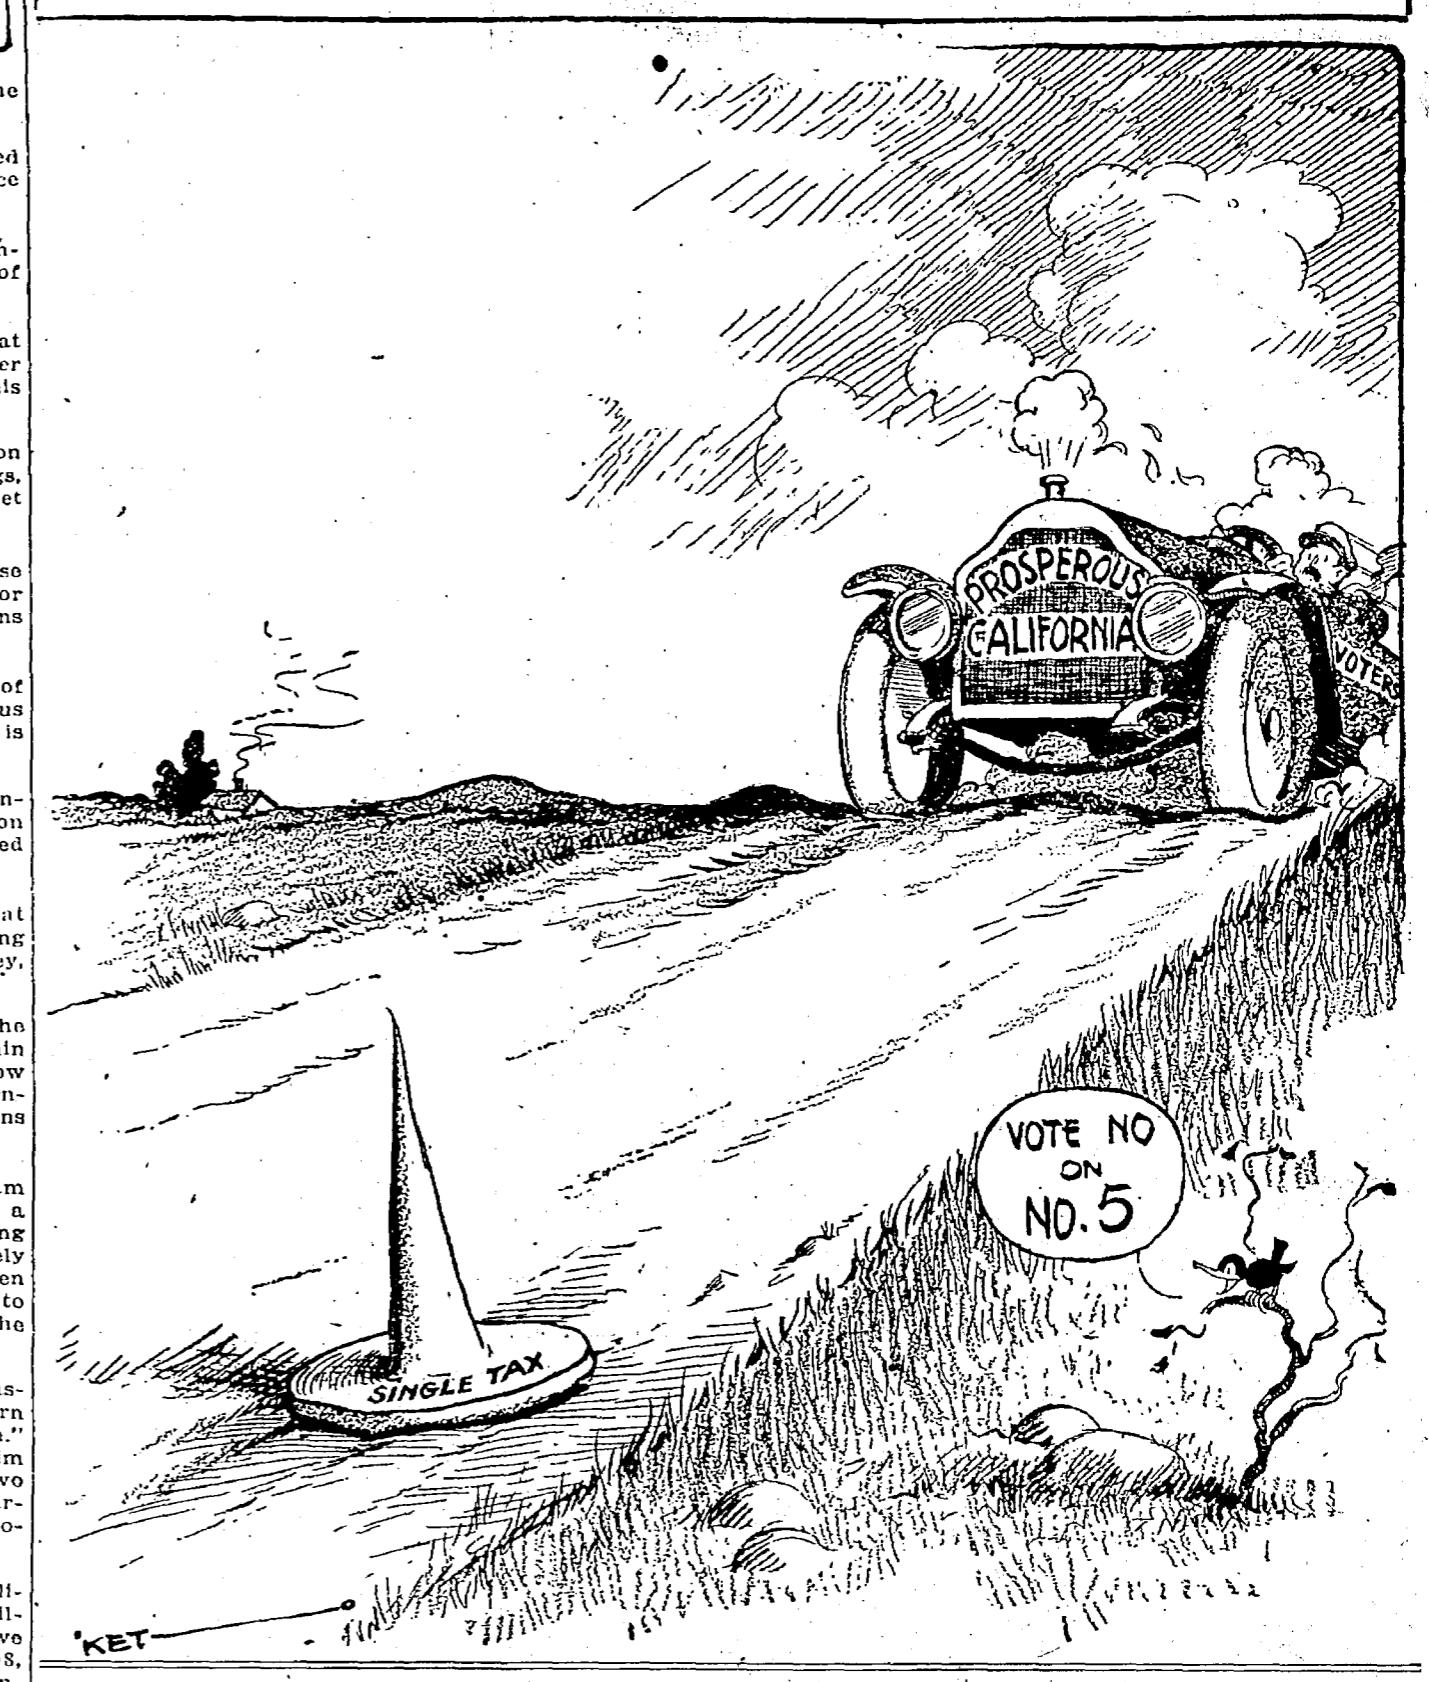

Advice from down river farmers is to the effect that the injury to the bean crop is not nearly as heavy as was at first reported. One week ago it looked as though much of the crop was ruined. However, warm sunshine followed the rain and this was exactly what the farmers needed.

BOND ISSUE RECOMMENDED FOR NEW HOSPITAL

To the Editor of The Tribune:

Supervisor Heyer voiced the opinion of thousands of voters when he said that a bond issue to cover the purchase of a site and the building of a county hospital would be the only solution of that matter.

Mr. Heyer also dwelt upon the fact that he remembered some forty years ago a similar agitation for a county hospital was started and that possibly the purchase of a site now was the result.

So, based upon such conclusions the purchase of a site would mean that the raising of sufficient funds to build a new hospital would take about one hundred years more.

For the magnificent City and County

Hospital in San Francisco and its up-to-date equipment, the city and county of San Francisco has expended a little more than five million dollars to date.

The character of service rendered by that community cannot be measured in value by the dollar standard. Both from the humanitarian and economic standpoint, San Francisco's investment is right in principle and productive in real benefit and returns to the community.

It is in order to solve the prob-

FRANCHISE AMENDMENT IS ENDORSED

Santa Fe Improvement Club and East End Civic Center Vote Approval of Resettlement Plan for Car Service

Unanimous endorsement of two of the largest improvement clubs of the city, the Santa Fe Improvement Club and the East End Civic Center, was given to the proposed indeterminate franchise amendment to the city charter. The question was also discussed at the Alendale Central Improvement Club, where, while no action was taken, hearty approval was expressed by many members.

In giving their approval of the indeterminate franchise, the members of the Santa Fe Club and the East End Center were of the opinion that the measure would benefit the city in enabling the traction company to improve its service. In endorsing the proposed amendment, members of the East End Center declared their intent to show their appreciation of the way in which the traction company had assisted in developing the city east of Lake Merritt, and stated that they believed that still better service would result through the carrying of the amendment.

Eugene Kaiser and H. A. Johnson spoke on behalf of the measure at the meeting of the Santa Fe Improvement Club.

A. F. Werum, secretary of the Fruitvale Board of Trade, detailed the good that would be derived from the franchise at the meetings of the Alendale Central Improvement Club and the East End Center. President Henry Barkmeyer said:

I have no reason to doubt but that the members of the Fruitvale Board of Trade will endorse the indeterminate franchise when they come to pass upon the matter. Personally, I think it would be a good thing and am in favor of it. While I do not wish to speak for the other members of the board, I believe there is every chance of the measure receiving their endorsement.

Many Imperilled By Explosion In N. Y. Subway

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—An explosion which Inspector Egan of the bureau of combustibles declares was caused by a dynamite bomb, seriously damaged the interior of a subway station at Lexington avenue and 110th street today. The explosion occurred only two minutes after a train had passed. Windows in the vicinity were broken and the entire neighborhood shaken, though no one was injured.

Nothing was found to indicate the nature of the bomb. If it was planted in the station, it was itself destroyed. Company officials who are conducting a separate investigation refused to comment on reports that it might have been a time device that missed wrecking the subway train only because of miscalculation. John Mittelstaedt told the police he saw five men run from the subway station early today and enter Central park.

MULDOON CERTAIN THAT "SPEED" MARTIN IS A STAR

Young Oakland Pitcher Recommended in Mid-Summer to Comiskey

By MR. MULDOON.

"Who do you think of them?"

"Will they make good in the big leagues?"

These were the questions put to me in the Oakland baseball park Sunday morning.

They referred to Martin and Risberg, who are to Marlin and Risberg, who is to start out with the St. Louis Browns next spring.

"Many are tried, but few are chosen."

This is the story that has been told of many promising players leaving the Pacific Coast League for the major leagues.

Several have more than made good.

On Sunday, the team led in successive years has proven itself more than a match for all others, the names of Lewis, Hooper and Leonard stand out above all others.

St. Mary's College grounds in Oakland these great players were graduated into the professional baseball field.

On this some ground Elwood Martin first won fame in the Pacific Coast League.

And he will answer the above questions first as they refer to Martin.

My first view of the big speedy twirler was obtained when he made his debut on the Oakland grounds last spring before a tremendous crowd.

It was a time and place and surrounding the boy had the nerve and power of the oldest pitcher, where all the burden of the play was on his shoulders.

Martin at this time was in his twentieth year.

Due perhaps to his extreme youth, he had never before appeared in a great enclosure before a great crowd and playing a professional game.

His appearance, however, was not due to lack of opportunity.

Some time before news of his skill had gotten abroad and he was offered engagements by Mariano of Boston, by Pauline Los Angeles, by Dugald of Pittsburgh and by Connie Mack of the Athletics.

These offers, liberal though they were, might have tempted him, but he left with the star in the Oakland field of semi-professional baseball.

He had been so sought after and so talked about that when it came to making a professional debut he had no choice but to go almost entirely on his young shoulders.

It was a fine, stalwart young chap who faced the music last spring when Oakland set out to play Portland the first game of the 1916 Pacific Coast schedule on the home grounds.

Elwood Martin, trembling like a leaf, went into the box.

His speed was terrific, but he was as wild as a March hare.

Sixty times he filled the bases, but always finished on the part of his support brought him through critical stages and he managed to win his game.

At one time when the bugs were all over him, he would jump up and down with a fine smash that brought in runs which clinched the contest for his side.

He proved on that day that the name "Speed" was honestly earned.

But with all his speed he was a raw, unseasoned player.

He had not real command of the ball, and but for the steady work or "handy" Elliott he would have fared badly.

He was all at sea when it came to watching the bases and pegging to them.

Now, on this Sunday, October 22, more than six months after his debut as a professional, we see "Speed" Martin again.

Now the boy is a broad-shouldered fellow of 21, the six months' professional may having worked wonders for him, not only in a physical way but in a playing sense.

He seemed to have perfect control and to have increased his terrible speed. But better than that was his wonderful improvement as a fielder.

So far he has not called on to make lightning plays and he always did the right thing at the right moment.

In midsummer I wrote Charles Comiskey, the owner of the White Sox:

"In Speed Martin the American League will capture a second." Walter Johnson, too, is a man of prophecy, for he said:

"If he does not immediately follow along arm and continues to improve he will easily be one of the greatest pitchers in the American League next year."

And what I said to Comiskey then goes now.

In fact, I see no reason why Martin should not prove as great a pitcher in the big leagues as Al Leonard, now the world's pitcher of the world champion Boston Red Sox.

Leonard pitched for St. Mary's in 1912 and 1913.

It was during that time that he performed a wonderful feat, hitting out twenty-three players in a single game, a record never since equaled by a pitcher of that college.

Like Martin, Leonard had something on record before he went abroad.

So he should not be one pitcher make as good as well as the other, coming as they do from the one school, each one now.

It was during that time that he performed a wonderful feat, hitting out twenty-three players in a single game, a record never since equaled by a pitcher of that college.

Like Martin, Leonard had something on record before he went abroad.

So he should not be one pitcher make as good as well as the other, coming as they do from the one school, each one now.

In midsummer I wrote Charles Comiskey, the owner of the White Sox:

"In Speed Martin the American League will capture a second." Walter Johnson, too, is a man of prophecy, for he said:

"If he does not immediately follow along arm and continues to improve he will easily be one of the greatest pitchers in the American League next year."

And what I said to Comiskey then goes now.

In fact, I see no reason why Martin should not prove as great a pitcher in the big leagues as Al Leonard, now the world's pitcher of the world champion Boston Red Sox.

Leonard pitched for St. Mary's in 1912 and 1913.

VALUATION OF PROPOSED SITES GIVEN

Descriptions of Possible Lots for Location of County Hospital Show Assessed Valuations and Acreage

Real Estate Board will probably be asked to appraise before final selection is made are four parcels that were included in the semi-final recommendations of the Public Welfare Commission, a body appointed by the supervisors to select a site.

After considering a long list of properties submitted by owners and agents, the Welfare Commission eliminated the greater number, until five sites remained, from which the California college properties at East Twenty-seventh street and Fourteenth avenue was finally selected.

DESCRIPTIONS.

Four of the sites finally considered by the board, their approximate acreage, assessed valuation and price for which they have been offered, for sale include the following descriptions, in addition to which is the J. N. Clark holdings in Fruitvale Heights, which the Real Estate Board will probably be asked to appraise:

California College site, comprising ten acres, offered for $52,500; assessed $14,300 for realty and $9200 for improvements.

Edward Gill estate property, Twenty-eighth and Filbert streets; five and one-fourth acres; offered for $75,000; assessed at $19,000.

J. N. Clark holdings, known as Schaefer property, of five and $53,1000 acres; offered for $27,250; assessed at $3200, or 60 per cent of valuation, at $1000 an acre.

Freed & Bancroft holdings, comprising two parcels of adjoining property; one piece, 276x236 feet, at Hawthorne and Webster streets, and another portion, a block 300 feet on Central Avenue, 300 feet on Hawthorne street and 333 feet on Webster street; entire parcel offered for $139,000; total real estate assessment of $54,460. In the piece bounded by Central Avenue, Hawthorne and Webster streets there is $10,300 assessment for improvements, while the remaining piece has no improvements.

Frances E. Gilmore holdings in Buena Park, known as the National Finance Crittenden property, comprising approximately seven and one-half acres; offered for $32,000.

This last property is subdivided into small "tent" lots, the assessment on which is approximately $7000. Estimates of the assessor's office are that as an entire piece the assessed valuation would amount to $5500, including land now designated as "streets." The taxes on this property were not paid last year and the property was sold to the state. It may be redeemed within the five-year period.

P. W. Morehouse, president of the Oakland Real Estate Board, announced today that the board had made its appraisement of the valuation of the California college site, and that the report of the board's findings will be presented to the Board of Supervisors tomorrow morning.

We guarantee Vinol which contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, to strengthen and build up weak, run-down, over-worked mothers.

Why they're Sensible

OCCASIONALLY, a more heavy, full-powered cigarette than Fatima tastes mighty good. But heavy cigarettes are a little too "oily" and rich to suit most men for long. You are certain to find more comfort in a delicately balanced blend like Fatima. Because Fatimas leave a man feeling keen and fit even after smoking more often than usual. That's why they're sensible. Prove it yourself.

ANDERSON'S MERGER DIVIDEND DECLARED

ONE of the most interesting and important pieces of corporate financing to directly affect Alameda county in two branches of its new industrial development is the recent new California Packing Corporation, assembled by Frank B. Anderson, Oakwood, Alameda and the San Lorenzo and Hayward districts all are immediately concerned in the new concern because the new concern includes the Alaska Packers Association with its country plants and warehouses in the Central California Canneries at San Lorenzo. The gigantic combination of capital represents a value of $20,000,000, supporting $10,000,000 preferred stock and 500,000 shares of common.

CONSTITUTENT COMPANIES. The Alaska Packers Association which packs salmon exclusively, operates four cannerys in Alaska, three on Puget Sound. It also owns an ocean-going fleet with a carrying capacity of about 70,000 tons. This fleet is outfitted in Oakland during the present season will be the largest on record.

The J. K. Armsby Company, California Fruit Canners Association, and Griffin & Skelly Company are factors in the dried fruit business, the principal componants of the association which the heads consisting of dried prunes, raisins, peaches, pears and apricots. The fruit is dried on the ranches by the growers and delivered by them to the packing houses of the various companies, scattered throughout the producing valleys of this state, in addition to which the constituent companies operate dried fruit packing houses in Oregon and Washington, and volume of about 7,487,000 cases. ## WALL STREET IS STILL IRREGULAR

Many Lines Raise, However; Losses in Deals Retrieved.

NEW YORK. Oct. 25.—The irregular tendencies of the preceding session were again manifested, though in more moderate degrees at today's opening, varieties of stocks being more or less common and preferred and International Paper, Republic Iron, Utah Copper and Colorado Fuel receding from fractions to common, while some of the more active stocks, however, by very substantial advances in Industrial Alcohol, American Writing Paper Preferred, the sugars, California Petroleum, Marine Preferred and Denver and Rio Grande performed feathered the rails on advances of two or more points.

Industrial pressure was soon overcome virtually all losses being retrieved to the accompaniment of various new records. These included American Steel and Paper, Cuba Sugar, American Writing Paper, General Cable, Gulf Gas of Baltimore, while Alcohol gained about 10 points, with nine for Bethlehem Steel.

United States Steel was firm with shipping, while the railroads, which had been rather perched, however, showed in increasing weakness and some high-priced specialties reacted moderately with strength.

Before noon, however, gains of the first hour, the only marked exceptions being Westinghouse, General Electric and Seaboard, were wiped out.

Industrial Alcohol and sugar stocks made marked gains in an irregular opening after the opening. Industrial Alcohol had had a marked advance, but the market was still irregular.

Confusing cross currents marked the later dealings, leaders displaying greater weakness while minor rails and speculative issues increased early gains. The market was up.

Mercantile paper, 3%; sterling 60-day bills, 4.71%; demand, 4.75%; cables, 4.76%; 60-day notes, 6.75%; 90-day notes, 6.51%. Government bond steady; railroad bonds, irregular. ## CHICAGO WHEAT PIT

CHICAGO. Oct. 25.—The wholesale price of high-grade family flour was advanced to $10 a barrel today, the highest price since the civil war. This is an increase of 30 cents within the last two days.

CHICAGO. Oct. 25.—Alarming reports that owing to greatly reduced damage to wheat fields in the West, the exportable surplus had shrunk to a sensational extent brought about a rapid advance today in the wheat market here, capturing a price which, it was believed, the year's export sales in the United States were larger than at first announced, and that foreigners were today continuing to purchase freely. In view of the year's export sales to no limit to the way offerings were absorbed. Selling was only by profit takers. Opening prices, which ranged from 74% to 78%, higher, with December at $1.800, 74 1/2% and March at 74 1/2% were followed by a rise respectively to 74 1/2 and 78%.

BANK STOCKS. Although at first corn was weak, the market showed signs of recovery and increasing receipts caused the initial depression. After opening unchanged to lower, prices sagged a little further and then scored a substantial general advance.

Subsequently the market outdid even the high-tightened market of 1888. The extraordinary bulge, however, led to foreigners' purchases, and the market recovered to its former level.

SAN FRANCISCO. Oct. 25.—Wheat firm, barley, May 2 1/2%; Dec., 2%.

Greek Government Issues Explanation

ATHENS, Oct. 25.—The Greek government today issued a communication to clear up misunderstandings due to exaggerated reports of King Constantine's interview with the French minister on Friday. The communication explains that the French government made no demands but merely submitted a memorandum and the king never declared he would not break off relations with the entente.

It is thought that as a result of a conversation between the king and the French minister, the memorandum, during which no promises were made, the corporation supplies all the power shortly from Athens and Piraeus.

Improvements Planned by Power Company

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Improvements aggregating $750,000 are to be made by the Sierra San Francisco Power company in its local plant and in building distributing lines. If the State Railroad Commission will authorize the sale of $1,000,000 of first mortgage five per cent gold bonds petitioned for today. The company hopes to realize $850,000 from the sale of the bonds, but some of this must be used to reimburse its treasury.

OAKLAND ORPHEUS PROGRAM PLEASES

Male Chorus Wins Immediate Response From Large Audience.

By RAY C. B. BROWN

For reasons which are deeply buried in our inheritance of ancestral memories, there is something essentially satisfying in a male chorus. To the sociologist and the psychologist may be left the task of determining whether that satisfaction may be traced to the primitive hunting song and the barbaric war chant—the fact remains that the mixed chorus and the ensemble of women's voices do not evoke the same emotional response. There is a distinct appeal in the masculine choir that is inextricably bound with the basic mystery of sex.

The Oakland Orpheus may owe some of its popularity to that fundamental sympathy, but its technical and artistic excellencies are its own—the result of the enthusiasm of the personnel and the training of the director. That the organization is popular was demonstrated again last evening at the second concert of the club's two-year session, when an audience of grand opera dimensions assembled in the municipal theater to hear an interesting program.

Among the numbers of special mention are Edwin Schulz' melodious "Forrest Harps," Director Edwin Dunbar Crandall's effective arrangement of Joseph D. Redding's pathetic lyric "My Fatherland," Long Ago and Far Away," Rooney's stirring "Clang of the Fugue," Longfellow's jesting lines, "I Know a Maiden Fair to See," in the musical setting of W. C. Williams, were rendered with an air of ironclad earnest.

The assisting artists, Miss Johanna Kristoffy and Miss Rebecca Clarko, contributed delightful numbers and were well received. Miss Kristoffy gave only one operatic selection, Romilda di Santuzza—and in her other songs displayed a charming and graceful ability as a lyric singer.

Miss Clarke easily demonstrated the validity of her international renown as a player of the violin, that rarely heard instrument of warm tones and throaty instrument "The most popular violin selection was Percy Grainger's "Sussex Christmas Carol," a bit of old English melody that seemed to come fresh and living from the pages of Thomas Hardy's "Under the Greenwood Tree."

Mrs. Helen Dorothy Crandall, who took the place of Mrs. Lowell Redfield at the piano, and made her first appearance before the Oaklanders, produced a most pleasing impression as an accompanist of sympathetic and insight.

RALLY AT HAYWARD.
HAYWARD, Oct. 25.—Congressman J. A. Elston and Mayor E. W. Wilf, former insurance commissioner, will be the speakers at a Republican meeting in the Wonderman Hall here Saturday evening. Peter J. Crosby will be chairman of the evening.

BANQUET PLANNED; CHAMBER EVENT

Big Affair to Celebrate Close of Membership Campaign Work.

Plans were made at a meeting of the board of directors of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce last night for a banquet to be held in the middle of November to mark the climax in the membership campaign now under way. At that time it is believed that the organization will have acquired the membership for which it has been striving, and will celebrate the occasion in a fitting manner.

Several prominent speakers are to be asked to address the members on that occasion. Among these will be Governor Johnson, United States Senator James D. Phelan, Congressman Charles F. Curry and others. Special features have been planned for the evening's entertainment, such as motion pictures of Oakland's commercial and industrial progress, vaudeville acts and novelties.

The board of directors also endorsed the proposed amendment No. 2, calling for a state bond issue of $15,000,000 for highway improvement, and urged its members to work for the passage of the measure. The endorsement was upon the recommendation of the good roads committee.

Arrangements were made by the sports committee to see what possible new tennis tournaments could be arranged for Oakland. It is planned to have the tournament played on the Lakeside park courts, where adequate accommodations can be had for both singles and doubles events at the same time.

The board of directors also endorsed the plans of the Peace Preparedness League for the election of a permanent chairman of the Peace Council, and made plans for the reception of the board of army and navy engineers who are coming to the coast on November 20 to make an official investigation for the federal authorities at Washington of feasible sites for that purpose.

It is planned to have a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce meet the surveying board on its tour of the Bay district, and point out the advantages of the Oakland harbor situation as a suitable spot for the location of the proposed base. Final selection of the committee, which will make complete arrangements with delegations from other commercial and industrial organizations in the city are to be made next week.

WOMEN "BREAK UP" STAG PARTY

"Absent Ones" Were Very Much There; It Was a Fine Affair.

Surprise still remains a big factor in strategy, present day war tactics notwithstanding, as twenty pretty young women, dressed in the fashions of Marymont & Upton demonstrated last night when they invaded and broke up a stag party given by the men of the firm in the Saddle Rock cafe.

When the menfolk announced their intention of holding a party all by themselves, the women determined to have a share of the fun. They made their plans accordingly.

As O. R. Tyson, manager of Marymont & Upton, was proposing a toast to the "sheer Indian," the girls had a bouquet by one of the attendants with the compliment of the women employees and containing an announcement that the women were holding forth at a separate party in the same cafe.

A delegation from the women headed by Miss May White proposed that mutual benefit would be derived by combining the two affairs. Gallantly, the men relinquished their cigars and bachelor ease and the entertainment for the remainder of the evening was held jointly. The musical talent of several of the employees contributed much to the success of the gathering.

Caplan Case Begins Trial Next Monday

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25.—The actual trying of the Caplan case will begin next Monday, in the opinion of Hyman Levin, one of Caplan's attorneys. It was at first thought the selection of the jury would take more than two weeks, but in the first three days seven jurors have been sworn in for permanent service, and it is now expected the remaining five will be selected this week early. Levin said:

"The defense will be hampered concerning the lack of funds, but absolutely without money and his case would be aided greatly if we could get it. Nevertheless we can prove innocence without importing an army of witnesses."

Clairvoyant Made to Redeem Bad Check

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 25.—W. Chesterfield, a traveling clairvoyant, was required to redeem a $10 check which nine years ago he gave to Police Judge W. E. Langdon of this city, then Business Manager for a local newspaper. The check was returned to Langdon nine years ago marked "No funds."

Langdon kept the paper and when Chesterfield advertised recently his return to this field, Langdon remembered him and demanded the money, which was at once forthcoming. The clairvoyant was not prosecuted.

RANCHER IS SUMMONED.
WALTON GREEN, Oct. 25.—The death of Oliver Walton, a rancher for a number of years between here and Lafayette, occurred yesterday at his home after an extended illness. He was 61 years of age. A native of Indiana, he married Walton and a son, Clarence C. Walton, the latter residing in Monroe, Wisconsin. He was a member of Territo Camp of Veterans, No. 12, and a member of Knights of Pythias. Under the auspices of the relief committee of the latter lodge funeral services will be conducted Friday in Berkeley.

BOND PROJECT DEFEATED.
FRESNO, Oct. 25.—Voters of Fresno county, at the special election, defeated the proposition to bond the county for $3,600,000 to build 446 miles of permanent highways. Late last night 168 precincts out of 201 gave $280 for and 625 against. Coalitions went overwhelmingly in favor of the bonds.

THE BEST LAXATIVE.
To keep the bowels regular the best laxative is outdoor exercise. Drink a full glass of water half an hour before breakfast and a glassful of fruit juice. You will also establish a regular habit and be sure that your bowels move once a day. When a medicine is needed take Chamberlain's Talcets. They are pleasant tasting and make a good laxative.
